

HATRED FOR "UNCLE TOM" IS SHOWN AGAIN

Proposal to Name Highway
'Uncle Tom's Trail' Brings
Storm of Protest

By WALDO MOORE

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee.)
SHEPHERD LA. Sept. 1.—The fres of hatred against Hannibal R. Stowe and her book "Uncle Tom's Cabin" burn in Louisiana with undiminished intensity today after six odd years. This is shown by the storm of protest raised throughout the state by the proposal of S. E.
Bowers, secretary of the General Louisiana Fair Association of Alexandria, that an eight-mile highway connecting Alexandria and Natchitoches be named "Uncle Tom's Trail."

The suggestion was made because the scenes and incidents in Mrs.
Stowe's novel were laid in Natchitoches parish county and according to local traditions Uncle Tom was buried in the Chin cemetery near the town of Natchitoches. Mrs. Stowe is said to have spent some time there gathering material for her book.

Patriotic societies led in the howl of indignation that went up regarding the proposed name. Mrs. F. W.
Brady, historian of the Louisiana division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, protected in a letter to H. H. Mobley, commander of the Alexandria camp of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, asking the mums of organization to take action. "We object," she wrote to making a memorial to a character in a book of hate against the south. Several organizations passed resolutions denouncing the proposed name.

Natchitoches aided its protest when
W. B. Gill, secretary of the Natchitoches chamber of commerce wrote Alexandria officials declaring "Mr.
Bowers shows an intense absence of facts regarding this patriotic section of Louisiana and further disregards the feelings of the people of Louisiana and of the entire South in attempting to perpetuate a name with its attendant misrepresentation reflecting seriously on the people of the South. Presumably Mr. Bowers has not lived long enough in Louisiana or the South to know that the infamous label contained in Uncle Tom's Cabin is not a true representation of the people of the South."

Several newspapers have taken the matter up editorially and one Shepherd daily flayed the proposed name declaring
"Conditions depicted in Uncle Tom's Cabin were not typical of the old South and great injustice was done true southerners as a whole by this contribution to American literature.
The story is considered intensely overdrawn. In view of the general belief that this novel helped effectually and unfortunately to fan the flames of hatred between the north and the south flames that it took years to extinguish which left a trail of suffering and regret, we are disposed to discourage any movement to perpetuate the name of Uncle Tom in our Southland."

"Uncle Tom's Cabin has caused enough regretful sentiment already. Let it alone. You'd be our suggestion if there are any highways to be named for it don't select them in the name of the country which the name caused to be so misjudged."
Meanwhile the highway christening has been indefinitely postponed.

WILL SHED CURLS IF HE GOES OVER FALLS

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 1.—
It is beginning to look as if "Bobby" Leach is going to have to forego his trip over Niagara Falls in a rubber ball.

His 13-year-old daughter, Viola, is blocking his way.

She's going to have her hair bobbed
if he does. And "Bobby" doesn't want that.

For Viola's lovely curls are her dad-dy's pride and joy. Tall, slender, olive-skinned Viola with her beautiful ringlets looks all the world like an Indiana maiden.

Months ago she tired of her curls
she wanted to have them cut off.
She wanted to wear her hair bobbed
like other girls her age.

But Daddy Leach wouldn't stand for it. It would break his heart, he told her. It she did.

Now Viola is an obedient child. She wouldn't do anything her father forbade.

Bobby's plans however for his second jaunt over the rapids—(he made his first one in a steel barrel 13 years ago)—brought rebellion.

"If you make the trip," she said,
"I'll have my hair bobbed. But if you cut it off, I'll not cut my curls."

So "Bobby" is stumped. He doesn't want his friends to call him "fellow."
And he doesn't want his daughter to shed her curls.

Then, too, "Bobby" has been unable to get his rubber ball.

He has been negotiating with three different rubber companies but they are slow in responding.

"I can't see why," he sighs. "It would be a great advertisement for any concern furnishing me with the rubber ball."

"Bobby's fame seems to be growing annually. Every year, more than 2, 000,000 persons, it is estimated, visit his little cafe and pool room at Youngstown, N. Y., a quaint little town at the mouth of the tempestuous river.

The taxi drivers are reaping a harvest hauling tourists to his place. An unsophisticated tourist always is urged to make the trip to "Bobby's."

Only 12 miles away—the drivers will tell you. But the distance probably is extended considerably on the return trip.

Day and night there's a fleet of cabs
in front of "Bobby's." Business is always good in the little cafe.

And "Bobby" of late years has become quite prosperous.

But he'll never be satisfied until he zoes over the Falls again.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 30.—

jacker and bandit was shot and instantly killed today by Mrs. Ethel Thompson as he leaped on the running board of an automobile occupied by she and her husband Joseph J. Thompson in the business section of the city. The Thompsons immediately drove to police headquarters, made statements and were released on $5,000 bond each.

Thompson according to the police report had been accused by the husband and wife of holding them up in Jefferson parish recently and robbing them of $250. Thompson is alleged to have threatened the couple within the last few days.

The scene of the killing was at Common and Divides Streets a busy corner in the business district.
Thompson said Thompson leaped out of a car and jumping on the running board of his machine shouted,
"I've got you."

Keys of Thompson's machine but was blocked Mrs. Thompson stated during the argument about the keys
Thompson reached for his hip pocket.

I thought he was after his gun,
she declared. "I had threatened my life and I believed he was going to kill us, so I turned around to the lock of the coupe and grabbed our revolver. I shot him once and he fell to the ground."

Thompson was shot through the heart and fell from the running board dead.

Immediately after the shooting
another automobile driven by a man believed to have been Thompson's companion sped away from the scene.

and Mrs. Thompson gave their ages
as 33 and 32 years respectively.

SMITH AT SERVICE OF DEMOCRATIC COM.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—An agreement by Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, to speak when and where the Democratic National Speakers Bureau may request and the refusal of Representative James V. McClintic, of Oklahoma, to remain at the head of that bureau because of its removal to New York, were outstanding developments today in Democratic political circles here.

Governor Smith's promise was announced by Thomas J. Spellacy, director of Eastern campaign headquarters, after half an hour's conference with the titular heads of the New York democracy. Mr. Spellacy said, however, that the governor would not begin stumping until after the New York State convention at Syracuse on September 27th.

The resignation of Mr. McClintic as head of the National Speakers Bureau, followed a conference of party chieftains here yesterday. Chairman Shaver, of the Democratic National Committee, has returned to Washington to confer with leaders there regarding the selection of a successor to Mr. McClintic and also as to where the bureau ultimately is to be located.

AMERICA'S INSATIABLE THIRST- for OIL

WE Americans are the greatest consumers of oil products in the world. Our average consumption is over five barrels a year for every man, woman and child. The average for the rest of the world is less than one-fifth of a barrel a year!

True, we are also the biggest producers, but we consume more than we produce. To keep the country supplied with gasoline, kerosene and lubricating oils the industry has had to go to the ends of the earth to hunt oil. It has had to dig deeper and still deeper. California's deepest well has been pushed to a depth of over 7,000 feet without striking oil. The orders are to drill to the limit of mechanical possibility.

That is the spirit that inspires
the industry to keep every wayside pump filled with gasoline:
explore to the limit, drill to the limit, refine to the limit, improve quality to the limit. Only in that way can 15 million motorists get reliable "gas" whenever and wherever they need it.

It is this spirit which has kept the "Standard" tank wagon on its weekly round over our remotest roads and kept "Standard" Gasoline up to the limit of quality.

COOLIDGE PLEDGES GOVT WILL CONTINUE POLICY IN BEHALF OF LABOR

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 1.—President Coolidge, addressing a delegation of labor representatives which called at the White House today said the government would continue a policy which he declared had resulted in American wage earners living better than at any time in our history.

"If anything is to be done for the government for the people who toil, for the cause of labor, which is the sum in all other causes," the president said, "it will be done by continuing its efforts to provide the most favorable conditions of employment, fair wages for fair work, stable business prosperity and the encouragement of religious worship."

Turning to a discussion of versions of labor law, Coolidge declared that the right of wage earners to organize, bargain collectively and negotiate through their own agents had been determined.

Referring obviously to the railroad labor board, he called attention to the fact that the government had been making an interesting experiment in relation to railroad labor, and added "it could probably be modified, through mutual agreement to the benefit of all concerned."

Restriction of immigration and enactment of tariff laws are necessary to preserve American standards for wage earners, the president continued, declaring that the present administration had sponsored such legislation.

Likewise, government economy, he said, is necessary, as is the establishment of peaceful conditions which will permit protection at a minimum level. "An inadequate army and navy," he said, "is a danger to the nation."

Instead of permitting a period of deflation which followed the war to be used "to secure a reduction in wages and the dissolution of labor organizations," he said, the administration adopted a policy of "helpfulness to business, industry and labor."

"The Federal Reserve system," he related, "has constantly been reduced discount rates business has received the millions who were without employment have found plenty of work at an increasing rate of wages. It is my belief that this policy represents one of the most important and helpful services on the part of the national government which was ever performed for the benefit of the wage earners of this nation. When almost everything else went crashing down, path of the nation, the education, nor should we lead upon an already over-burdened government at Washington the educational duties, which properly belong to the states and cities and local communities. But we must sustain support and strengthen in every way our indispensable system of public schools so that every child may be assured of an education, and of such an education as will help him not only to earn his living but also to live."

"And if we open wide by education the door of opportunity to the child we owe it to him to see that human greed does not close it again. It is a blot upon our good name that child labor should be permitted anywhere in the United States to dwarf the minds and bodies of the future citizens of the republic. To stunt the growth of a child in his most critical years to rob him of his opportunity for education, and make of him a juvenile drudge for mere purposes of profit is a crime against the future of the race."

"Of course, the several states can and they should prevent this thing. I would not wish that power taken from them. When Congress has passed, in 1916, its first child labor law, however, it became my duty as solicitor general to argue in the supreme court of the United States. I urged in its support that unless a uniform standard was enforced throughout the United States the states that wished to legislate against child labor would be deterred because of economic disadvantages they would suffer in competition with their less progressive neighbors. I call attention to the fact that for like reasons more than one failed to bring about equality among the nations on similar subjects."

"The reasons which I put forward in support of the law of 1916 seem to me still to obtain and lead me now to favor the ratification of the new law. It is my duty as solicitor general to support the law. Responsibility for decision is that subject now rests with the states themselves but were I a member of a state legislature my vote would have been cast to ratify the amendment."

"Even today, however, it is an empty phrase unless all men are left free to grasp it. Not only must laws be just and equal but we must see that they do not evade those natural rights which neither congress nor legislature, presidents nor governors, courts nor commissions may rightfully restrict freedom of speech, which means the right to say things that displease as well as the things that please those in power."

Of course, in a country so diversified as ours, many mistaken ideas are set afloat. Wild theories of government and society are thrown up in a population that contains so many sorts of men. But I am one of those who continue to believe that the only disinfectant, moral or physical, is fresh air. The best defense against the tyranny of the few or the despotism.

A change of front took place in time to save them from almost certain destruction.

"I want to see our institutions more and more humane. But I do not want to see any of the people cringing applicants for the favor of the government, when they should be all independent masters of their own destiny. I want to encourage business, that it may provide profitable employment. I want to see jobs hunting for men, rather than men hunting for jobs."

"As a result of all these fortunate circumstances, organized labor is fast becoming one of the powers of capital in this country. Its co-operative enterprises and its entrance into the field of banking and investment have given it not only a new power of influence but a new point of view. It is learning the problems of enterprise and management by actual experience."

"It is my policy to continue these conditions insofar as it is possible to continue this march of progress. There are two important domestic factors in this situation. One is restrictive immigration. This has been provided by this administration chiefly for the purpose of maintaining American standards. We want the people who live in America, no matter what their origin, to be able to continue in the enjoyment of their present unprecedented advantages. This opportunity would certainly be destroyed by the tremendous influx of foreign peoples if immigration were not restricted."

The second factor is the tariff for protection. I will give you some examples of the wages paid in Europe. Such a means that goods can be produced much cheaper than they can here. If our policy of protection is to be abandoned, the goods which are now made by the wage earners of America will be made by the wage earners of Europe. Our own people will be out of employment. Our entire business system will be thrown into confusion with the misery which always accompany the hard times of attempted economic readjustment. Under free trade the only way we could meet European competition would be by approaching the European standard of wages. I want to see the American standard of living maintained."

New Salvation Officers Here

ADJUTANT AND MRS. ERNEST DUERR.

Adjutant and Mrs. Ernest Duerr have taken over the local Salvation Army, succeeding Adjutant and Mrs. Paul Jones, who have been transferred to Fredericksburg, Md. Adjutant and Mrs. Duerr came here from Charlottesville, where they have been in charge of the Salvation there for almost three years. Installation of adjutant and Mrs. Duerr, both publicly and at the local hall on North Main street has already taken place, the public service being held Saturday night at the corner of Main and Union streets, where a large crowd was on hand. The services in the hall last night were also well attended. Mrs. Duerr stated this morning that she was very much impressed with Danville and she and her husband agree that Danville affords a better field for work in that organization than did Charlottesville. The new officers have already gotten busy in their new field. They announced this morning that the hall on North Main street is to be added to and renovated, the work to be started immediately. Two additional rooms are to be added to the old quarters, the old rooms to be renovated.

MAY BE SEED CORN Famine Next Year

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 30.—Farmers of Virginia are advised to save the best of their 1924 corn for seed for the season of 1925 in a bulletin issued by the United States department of Agriculture received here today, which warns of probable seed corn famine next year. The bulletin in part says: "The spring of 1924 was unusually backward in many sections. Following this, the growing conditions were not good, with the result that the bulk of the corn is extremely late throughout the corn belt and northward. It is so late that most of the crop will be unfit for seed unless frost holds off longer than usual this autumn."

The danger of a serious seed-corn shortage situation in the spring of 1925 will be averted only by the saving of 1d corn from 1924, where farmers still have that crop stored away, and by the selecting of the best of this year's crop for next year's seed, says the warning.

Centennial Event Is Well Attended

A number of Danville Baptists yesterday attended the centennial celebration of the Sandy Creek Baptist church near Ringgold. The services were very largely attended twice as many people being on hand than could be accommodated in the hundred year old church where a pageant was staged depicting the history of the church. An abundance of food was served at the midday recess or better in the morning centennial service and the afternoon pageant, in which people of the community represented some of the outstanding figures in the church, starred in the dress of that day. The church is one of the oldest in this section though it is said that the Kentucky Baptist church is nearly as old.

Among the visiting former pastors at yesterday's ceremony were Rev. W. E. Warren, of Beulahville; Rev. J. A. Beam, of Roxboro, N. C., and Rev. Mr. Cicath, of Paces. Rev. C. J. Parker and good delegation from Moffett Memorial church were also present. Talmadge Phillips, A. A. Hall, Walter Adams and W. J. Benazzi sang several quartette selections.

Another Match Between Tilden and Johnston Soon

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Critics predict another match for the singles title of America between "Big Bill" Tilden, the champion and "Little Bill" Johnston, for years his foremost rival, at the conclusion of today's semi-finals in which Tilden meets Vincent Richards, Olympic champion and Johnston clashes with Gerald T. Patterson of Australia.

The champion swept through four rounds at top form and is a consequent favorite over Richards, whose recent form, however, has made of him a dangerous opponent for the champion. Johnston is a general favorite over Patterson.

BORN DRUNK

LONDON, Aug. 30.—There is an alternative to being born with a silver spoon in one's mouth. According to a speaker at the British Women's Temperance Association conference recently, it is possible for a baby to be born drunk.

There is actual medical testimony to that effect. A number of competent medical authorities were invited to express their opinions on the matter. Dr. Elizabeth Sloan Chesser said it was possible to be born alcoholized. If a woman were constantly intoxicated during the early stages of prospective motherhood, the results would be harmful. A child so born might be mentally deficient, and its powers of resistance to disease would certainly be lowered.

She cited a report issued by the medical superintendent of a women's prison, who said that women constantly under the influence of alcohol frequently lost their babies at birth. When they were prevented from obtaining liquor they had healthy children.—World-Wide.

Gardner while he probably has made up in his own mind who shall constitute the committee of finance, public works and public welfare, may withhold his announcements until later in the week. The first regular meeting of the new council will be held on September 10th.

The old council died a natural death at 8:25 Saturday night, the final rites being the signing of the minutes of the final meeting. No business was transacted and the meeting was devoted to reading the minutes of the August meeting and then the brief record of Saturday's meeting. Frank Talbott just before Col. A. B. Carrington declared the session adjourned without day took occasion to eulogize the body, lauding it for its progressive spirit and for the absence of bickerings and its straightforward method of doing business. Col. Carrington terminated 16 consecutive years of service as a city councilman and speaking informally afterwards, said that he had enjoyed serving and that he had got lots of fun out of it.

One of the last tasks of the council was to sign the following resolution prepared by the city auditor and addressed to the mayor:

Resolution
Whereas, on the fifteenth day of August, eighteen hundred and ninety-two, Captain Harry Wooding, in the prime of life, was elected to the office of mayor of the city of Danville, the highest office of the city, and whereas, during the years which followed and to the present time he has so creditably filled the dual office of mayor and police court justice for the city, and

Whereas, on September first, nineteen hundred and twenty-four, after having served in such dual capacity for the long period of thirty-two years, he will be retired from the office of police court justice to the single office of mayor, or head of our city government, and

Whereas, the city council is familiar to a large extent with some of the many problems with which he has had to deal and with the highly satisfactory and efficient manner in which he has handled them.

Therefore, be it resolved by the members of the Council of the city of Danville that the Council hereby declare to Honorable Harry Wooding, mayor of the city of Danville, its appreciation for the long and faithful service rendered the city.

Be it further resolved that this modest token of appreciation be forwarded to the Honorable Harry Wooding, in whose honor this resolution has been offered.

The Tangle

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotion Revealed in Private Letters

"Besides," continued Miss Perier, "I am like a drunkard. I buy and buy so that I will not think. I looked at her in surprise, Leslie, for I could not quite realize what she had that she wanted to blot out from her brain. She seemed to think, however, that this was explanation enough, for whatever her thoughts had been she gave herself up to them, and apparently forgot that I was there."

"Miss Perier, you surely must have only pleasant thoughts," I exclaimed, hoping to call her out of herself. "No young woman has had greater success than you in the last three years."

"Perhaps that's so, but what does success on the screen mean?" Money? Yes, of course, lots of it. The extravagant admiration of many people whom you have never seen and never will see, coupled with the feeling that you have no real friends. The men for whom you work think of you only as a cog in the wheels that turn out golden dollars for them and all the other people you know are either jealous or envious of you."

"This morning when I awoke," she continued, after a moment, "I thought the whole world was hard and cold. Even the sun which was trying to peep through the Chicago smoke seemed only a great brass ball something not capable of sending out any warmth. When I opened my eyes I found myself saying, 'I don't want to go to Hollywood. I don't want to go back to work. I don't want to read another fan letter. I don't want to hear another soulless compliment. I just want to go somewhere and sit out in the sun under the trees, and hold a baby in my arms.'"

"Then you called my room you know, and immediately, like the drunkard who knows the lethal draft, I said, 'Well go shopping.' Because Paula Perier, guest of the joy of a child, immediately told her about your little boy Jack—how sweet and darling he was, and how you loved him. I've never seen such a radiant look on human face as on Paula Perier's when she turned her eyes toward me."

"Oh, have you seen the Prescotts' little boy?" I saw him once and I think he is the loveliest child I have ever seen. I used to know Mr. Prescott many years ago and when I returned to the city on my first appearance tour his wife was most charming to me. She is devoted to the boy, is she not?"

"I have never known such a wonderful mother," I said, "as is Leslie." "What would she do?" asked Paula Perier if the child were to die or be taken away from her? "I think I should heartily be broken."

"Yes, I think it would," said Paula Perier. The shopping tour which had started with a laugh ended with a slow dropping tear. Paula Perier, who had given the dress where she wished her purchases sent, unceremoniously walked out of the store without paying any more attention to the beautiful things she had purchased. She is a strange woman, isn't she, Leslie?"

REVERSIBLE FUR WRAPS, THE LATEST IN FUR STYLES

The latest fur wraps are reversible which is good news for the woman who buys one. "As long as a fur wrap costs as much as a good automobile why not give the wearer more for her money?" So reasoned the fashion arbiters and thus we have a garment that can be transformed in the twinkling of an eye from a plain black and white affair to a creation trimmed with thousands of ermine tails.

The first pose shows a Russian ermine creation with foundation of imported orange chenille. The second is the same garment reversed. It has 3,000 ermine tails, set in individual tinsel caps, and a white fox collar.

The third and fourth show a combination wrap of royal blue brocaded velvet and Russian ermine. One view of it shows solid ermine in herringbone pattern. Reverse it and you have the rich velvet with ermine border.

RADIO, THE MODERN PROSPECTOR!

JEROME, Ariz., Aug. 30.—Radio has turned prospector.

In fact, so certain has this science become in its discovery of copper ore hidden deep underground, that the United Verde Copper Company, one of the world's biggest copper companies and owned by Senator Clark of Montana, has adopted it in this and other areas.

Veins are being mapped out by radio far ahead of the time for mining them. Deposits which otherwise might never have been discovered are now revealed to man.

Daniel G. Chilson, electrical engineer, is the inventor of this radio process. It took him practically 20 years to develop it to what is now a certain method of prospecting for copper. His invention has revealed many large deposits of ore heretofore passed over by experienced prospectors.

In the course of 22 months with the United Verde company, Chilson has covered the greater part of the Verde district and his survey contains information that no amount of time and money could have secured through the usual methods of prospecting and development.

At 20 Years
Chilson first conceived the idea of locating ore bodies by radio in 1901, at Goldfield, Nev. He first found that sulphides—such as copper—were the best conductors and that copper ore deposits, even when separated by earth, water or other electrical conductors, were themselves capable of maintaining electrical continuity or contact.

Chilson's description of his invention is brief:
"Contact is made upon sulphide ore having electrical continuity, with electrical energy of the proper frequency impressed upon same in such manner that all connecting wires will act in unison with the transmitter and as a part of the transmitter. A receiver, then, operated in proximity to ores thus affected, will indicate their location, through the medium of the magnetic field created by the ores, acting as part of the transmitter."

Far and Deep
"It has proved possible with this process to locate sulphide ore bodies under favorable conditions, to depths of 2000 feet or more. It is also possible under favorable conditions to operate as far as six or seven miles distant from the transmitter contact.

"It is possible to work underground in like manner, except as limited by the influences of power lines, pipe lines and rails in close proximity to the receiver, which limitations, of course, prevail alike on the surface and underground." Chilson has checked up his process with known ore bodies and has found the instruments to be accurate. Knowledge of geology, important to successful mining and prospecting, has been found practically unnecessary with the use of his instruments.

MILLION DOLLAR CORP'N IS COMPLETELY FINANCED

It is reliably reported that J. W. Fretwell, of this city, has succeeded in financing within the last six weeks a million-dollar corporation known as the Fretwell Safety (Locked) Razor Corporation, of Richmond, Va., where it is provided its principal office will be. It is his purpose as soon as the arrangements can be completed to put the invention on the market. Financing of the big enterprise was accomplished through the agency of The American Holding and Finance Corporation, of Richmond and New York, underwriters.

Mr. Fretwell last night confirmed the report and produced letters of intent from this country, France, Belgium, and others on the device. He also had a telegram yesterday informing him that all the stock in the concern had been sold, being subscribed principally in Richmond and New York City.

A meeting has been called for next Thursday in Richmond to organize the company, and will thereafter proceed to manufacture the device and put it on the market. The concern was chartered under Virginia laws and registered in New York. It is said to be the purpose of the corporation to manufacture and sell safety razors other than the locked device.

The purposes of the locked razor are not only to provide a safe instrument for persons in prisons, jails and asylums, but also to assure sole and individual use of the razor by the owner of one. Prison and hospital authorities have commended the device as one greatly needed as a safety precaution in such institutions.

Mr. Fretwell contemplates making his home in Richmond where he will be able to keep in touch with the direction of the plant it is proposed to operate there.

The chief of police of Leamington stating that the youth collar had been found two miles from town but that there was no trace of him. Mr. Abbott at once sent George Abbott into Canada to seek him and he wired home Saturday that the trace could be found and advising his father to "come at once." Members of the family have received no further information and are unable to speculate intelligently on what has happened at this distance.

Miss Annie Sue Green of Drum Hill, N. C., Had Crossed Eyes Ever Since She Could Remember

Her Eyes Were Straightened by Dr. J. D. Butler's New Method and Prescription Glasses

"Would you believe her eyes were crossed less than six weeks ago?"

Such was the happy salutation of Mrs. M. L. Jones. The object of conversation was little Miss Annie Sue Green, fifteen years old. Anyone looking at the little girl would unhesitatingly answer no to the question. "Well it is a fact," Mrs. Jones continued. "The Greens are particular friends of mine and I had to think of a young girl growing to womanhood with crossed eyes and the defect getting worse with the years. I read in the papers about Dr. J. D. Butler's new method for the correction of squint, and communicated with Annie Sue's family, and arrangements were made for her to come and take the treatment."

"Dr. Butler had unusually good success with Annie Sue's case for her eyes were straightened in just five weeks. He says it usually takes six months to straighten crossed eyes and that he does not work so fast and give the treatments so often when it is convenient for the patient to come to him, but Annie Sue came from Drum Hill, N. C., and he gave her three treatments a week while here in order to finish the work as quickly as possible so she could go back home. He says some patients take a few treatments and quit, because they don't see results at once. This they should not do for, in some cases, it takes a good many treatments before any noticeable change toward straightening of the eyes can be seen."

"Yes they wanted to have an operation done on my eyes to straighten them," interposed the little girl. "The reason why I consented for Dr. Butler to treat my eyes was, I was told he did not use a knife. I have always dreaded having a knife used on me, and especially on my eyes. Then, too, I was told that he does not resort to the use of drugs in any way."

"My eyes had given me no end of trouble. They had been crossed ever since I can remember. I was almost blind in the left eye when I went to Dr. Butler, and the other eye was in a terrible condition. I could not see clearly to do my school work, the type would blur and the letters run together, and at times I would see things double. My head ached and my eyes pained and ran water constantly when trying to study my lessons. Oh! I can never tell you how I suffered. But now my eyes are straight, I don't have any more headache, nor any smarting, burning and watering of the eyes. I no longer see things double and can study my lessons with ease and comfort, and can see good, too, with both eyes. In my case Dr. Butler performed a feat little short of a miracle."

Miss Green's Brother Interviewed.

When Mr. W. R. Green was asked to explain how his sister's eyes were straightened without an operation, he said:

"In order to have good vision when a distant object is seen, the two eyes must fix upon that object, and the lines of sight in both eyes must be parallel. But in a case of squint, only one eye fixes the object, and the other eye turns in toward the nose, and the line of sight in the squinting eye is not parallel with the line of sight in the other eye; consequently the squinting eye does not see the object at all; and in the course of a few years that eye becomes practically blind from disuse. Dr. Butler's method for correcting crossed eyes is first, to restore the vision in the squinting eye by means of spectacles, in which he changes the glasses from time to time during the treatment; and second, by training the two eyes to work together, after the vision has been partly restored. He uses three electric instruments for this training. One of them consists of two parallel tubes, the interiors of which are illuminated by electricity, and they are fastened together by means of a hinge. The patient looks into the tubes, the same — one does when looking through opera glasses. Two similar pictures are placed, one in each tube, at the end of the instrument, farthest from the patient's eyes. By means of the hinge, the tubes may be crossed, or set at any angle on squint, so the squinting eye sees the picture in one tube, and the other eye sees the picture in the other tube, and the two pictures are fused into one, the same as a double picture is seen as a single picture with an ordinary stereoscope. At each setting Dr. Butler uncrosses the tubes, or pulls them apart, little by little, without breaking up the fusion, or in other words, causing the pictures to be seen double, until the patient can see the two pictures, one with each eye, as one picture, with the tubes parallel. When the tubes are parallel, anyone with normal eyes can see the two pictures in the tubes, as one picture, the same as he can see a double picture as a single picture, with a stereoscope."

"The other instruments he uses are too intricate for me to understand. I would say, however, his method and instruments are among the greatest inventions of the age. Who would have thought, fifteen years ago, that crossed eyes could be straightened without an operation, or without pain, or any discomfort whatsoever to the patient?"

"If your eyes bother you in any way if they flicker or become inflamed, if you do not see easily and well if headaches impair your efficiency or interfere with your pleasure, if you cannot enjoy every minute of your reading, call immediately. Consultation free from 9 to 1 and 1 to 6 o'clock. Southern Amusement Bldg., 551 Main St.

The Experience of a Nurse in the Use of CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

ABOVE is a portrait of Mrs. R. H. Booth, a nurse for women, who for eight years has been the postmistress of Murfreesboro, Tennessee. To the right is a statement by Mrs. Booth in which she tells of her own and of her patients' use of Cardui, the woman's tonic. In the lower right-hand corner, Mrs. Booth is shown caring for a cage of pet canaries, of which she has about fifty.

Mrs. Booth has exerted important influence for the good of community life around Murfreesboro, where she is known far and wide. Many a woman there is a wiser and happier mother for having had the care and sound advice of this experienced nurse.

Cardui, which Mrs. Booth and thousands of other women have found of great value in the treatment of many womanly ailments, is a purely vegetable tonic, with a record of nearly fifty years of successful use. Cardui is obtainable at all reliable drug stores, and every woman who suffers from common disorders of the female system should immediately try this well-known remedy.

THE first time I took Cardui, and that was thirty years and more ago, I took it as a tonic to build up my strength after ... I was dreadfully run down and that trouble left me very weak and dispirited. Someone recommended Cardui to me as a tonic for women and I took it. It did me a great deal of good that time. Later I took it for change of life and it brought me through without more than the usual amount of trouble. I was afflicted with hot flashes, smothering spells, which I dreaded more than anything else, and extreme nervousness. I was just going through the change when we first came here to live eight years ago, and as we were just getting settled I could not stop to rest and relax as I should have. I took Cardui all during that time and it was wonderful how much good it did me.

I have been an obstetrical nurse for many years. I practice all over this country and I recommend Cardui to my patients when they are in need of a good, reliable tonic before and after childbirth. I have seen it work so well with those who have used it that it is my stand-by for such cases. Two of my patients are taking Cardui now, and doing fine. One had twins, and she was a frail, weak little thing, so I had her take Cardui as a tonic.

Cardui is fine. I am a strong believer in it, for in my experience I have seen it help many women.

MRS. R. H. BOOTH.

Rice's Double Gives Washington Victory; Giants Lose

SENATORS INCREASE LEAD OVER YANKEES BY TAKING SUNDAY'S CONTEST 4 TO 2

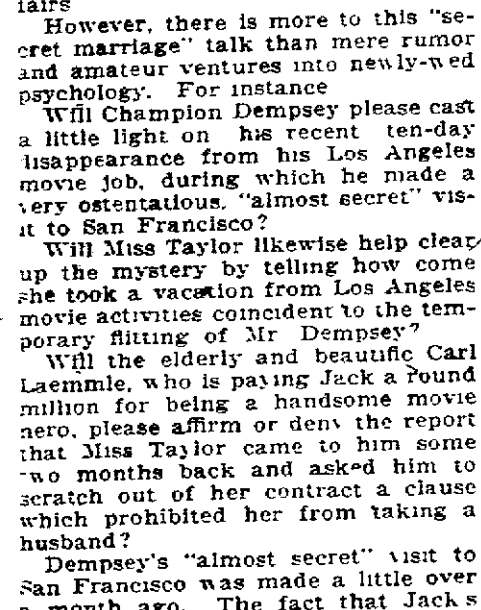

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—September dawn found Washington and the Giants leading the major leagues, and the unwritten baseball law legislated by the Labor day leaders into the penitential.
The Senators claim begins to assume the patent of ability but McGraw's outfit has been fighting the kids so unsuccessfully for the last three weeks that it is easy to picture either the Pirates or Robins passing the National League lead on the run home.
The Senators and Yankees fought what may have been the deciding battle in the American League campaign yesterday. The players played very tight, hard, in the contest, fought around all situations and the Washington lawyers conducted so strenuous and investigation of a called ball on Ruth that the umpires awarded Manager Harris and Pitcher Mordecai.
In the tenth inning Rice settled the argument by hitting a double with

IT LOOKS LIKE JACK DEMPSEY ABOUT TO WED

Movie City Believes Champ and Pretty Star Are Already Married.

By L. C. OWEN
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Jack Dempsey, the heavyweight king, engaged to be wed.
Are he and Estelle Taylor, pretty film star, who left Los Angeles aboard the same train with the monarch of maulers, planning to marry a duetist "I do" some time before, or right after, they reach the Atlantic seaboard?
Last, but not least—Are Jack and Estelle already hitched?
Offhand, the last may sound like a valid conjecture, but out here on the Pacific coast there are a lot of Jack's close friends who believe it is so. Also there are a few circumstantial facts which might indicate it is so. To start with for persons who are already known to entertain a very kindly regard for each other, Dempsey and Taylor are cloaking themselves with a lot of sangfroid when prying interviewers show up.
The same variety of sangfroid it is limited out by would-be psychologists, frequently manifests itself in persons who already have made a supercilious trip to the altar and who, having secured all of their own, sit back and chuckle while the world at large try to pry into their heart affairs.
However, there is more to this "secret marriage" talk than mere rumor and amateur ventures into newly-wed psychology.
Will Champion Dempsey please cast a little light on his recent ten-day disappearance from his Los Angeles movie job, during which he made a very ostentatious, "almost secret" visit to San Francisco?
Will Miss Taylor likewise help clear up the mystery by telling how come she took a vacation from Los Angeles movie activities coincident to the temporary flitting of Mr. Dempsey?
Will the elderly and beautiful Carl Laemmle, who is paying Jack a round million for being a handsome movie hero, please affirm or deny the report that Miss Taylor came to him some two months back and asked him to scratch out of her contract a clause which prohibited her from taking a husband?
Dempsey's "almost secret" visit to San Francisco was made a little over a month ago. The fact that Jack's sum shoe up here became known was his fault. Somebody spotted him hidden away in the back seat of a local theater box and from all reports the champion was not entirely pleased at being recognized. Furthermore, during his visit here, Jack did not see fit to register at any of the big downtown hotels. Just where he stopped is still a mystery.
Should it turn out that Dempsey and Miss Taylor hope to marry, already have arranged to get married—or are already married—then they can thank the heavyweights, champions, manager, handsome Jack Kearns for the role of cupid. Most managers of prize-fighters look upon marriage bells for their meat tickets as nothing less than plain poison. Not so Kearns.
It was Kearns who first noted the friendly urge between Jack and Estelle when the latter was playing the same theater engagements with the Manassa Mauler back east several months ago. The romance at that time was said already to have budded. So when Jack came to the coast to earn a million—a personal record of the net receipts—for doing him heroic, Kearns arranged with the movie company for Miss Taylor to come out and be the leading lady. Under the circumstances it would seem that the present alleged affection of Jack and Estelle was no sudden night blooming Venus or "outta sight outta mind" affair.
Also there is that matter of Jack recently having had a beauty doctor work on him. Love, assert experts in such things, is the greatest known stimulant to the sale of talcum, massage creams, perfumes—and new noses. Heavyweight champions may be no exception to the rule.

Sensors Get Big Welcome By Fans On Return Home
(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Thousands of Washington baseball fans thronged the Union Station to greet the capitals conquering heroes upon their return, shortly before last midnight, from New York with a three to one string of victories over the world champion Yankees, a game and a half margin on the league leadership.
Efforts of Manager Harris to dodge the sweltering heat, crowd so he might save the nerves of his players for today's two games with Philadelphia were futile. A reception committee joined by Representative Marx E. Nolan of California, the only woman member of Congress, was waiting for them outside the gates and a quick change of exits from one end of the station to the other failed to prevent the demonstration of the fans estimated to number 8,000, had stayed up half the sweltering night to fringe.
All of the players got a big cheer but Walter Johnson, dean of pitching ace, received the greatest ovation.
"Walter, how's your hand?" came the anxious chorus.
"It's fine," he insisted.
And then, further relieving the anxiety of the fans, he guided his own car skilfully through the throng.

HE'S NOBODY'S HALF-WIT

FRANK WALKER
The Yankees got word of the fine form a young outfielder by the name of Frank Walker, who is displaying for the Rocky Mount team in the Virginia League. So they sent one of their business agents down to look him over.
Duly impressed, said agent inquired for the manager of the team.
"I'm the manager," replied Mr. Walker.
"Well, how do you like to go to the New York club?" the business agent asked.
"Fine," admitted Walker.
"All right, I'll go in and talk turkey with the owner of this club," Mr. Walker touched the business agent on the arm. "I'm the owner," he informed.
"You don't sweep up the park too, do you?" exclaimed the surprised metropolitan visitor.
Mr. Walker assured him that he did not and in a few minutes he had sold himself to Miller Huggins' plan for $11,000.
And being the star manager and owner Mr. Walker quite naturally kept the money himself.

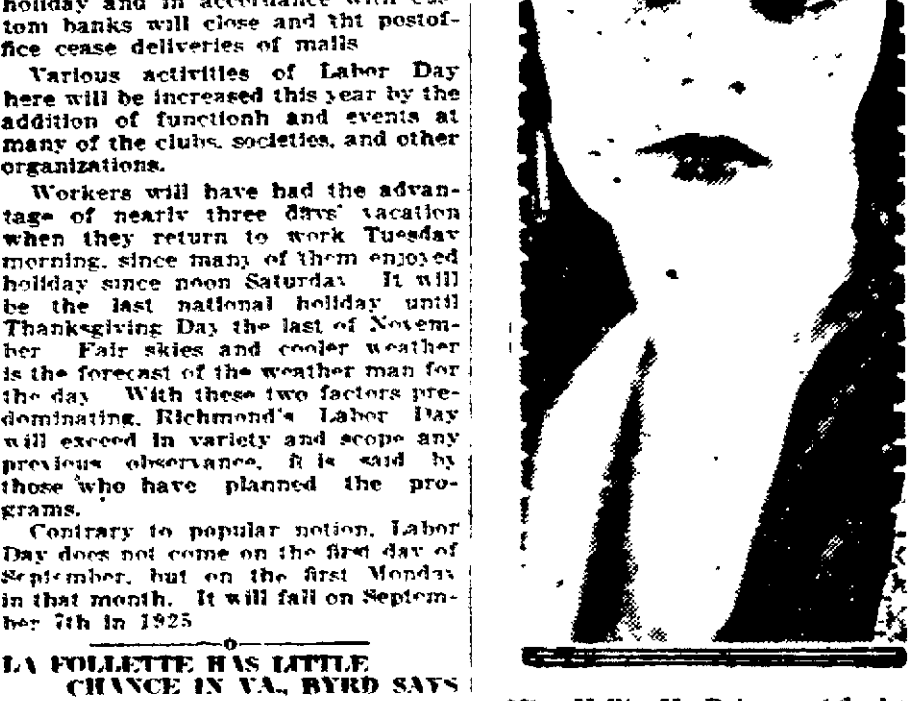

SUZANNE LENGLEN NOT A QUITTER—REALLY ILL

(By L. C. OWEN, Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
BERKELEY, Calif. Sept. 1.—Suzanne Lenglen French tennis meteor is not a quitter. She really was ill and unfit to play when she dodged a meeting with Helen Wills, America's premier woman's tennis ace, first at Wimbledon last June and later in the olympic championships at Paris.
Furthermore, had temperamental Suzanne been able to meet the youthful and demure American champion in Wightman cup play at Wimbledon she probably could have beaten the latter. Had they played at Paris however, well that's a different matter.
All the foregoing may be set down in American sport annals as statement of fact, for they come from the highest authoritative source—from Miss Wills herself.
Unspooled by European plaudits of the multitudes, handshakes, with crowned heads and all the accolades showered upon her—just as winsome and even more diplomatic when being interviewed than when she left—Miss Wills was back in Berkeley today with her nose buried in a stack of school books, more intent on making up two weeks lost time in college than in being America's premier tennis star.
In her home coming it seems that Miss Wills reserved something for her home town folks which a lot of people in the east and abroad would have liked to start her talking about.
Miss Suzanne Lenglen.
Ever since before she left home early last May with the hope of a chance at the French girls' title either at Wimbledon or in the olympic games, people have been trying to get the Berkeley girl to say something about Suzanne. The much sought "something," it was hoped, would be a few words starting a colorful bunch of verbal pyrotechnics between the two—something like those already engaged in a couple of occasions by Miss Lenglen and Mrs. Mollie Mallory or like big Tilden once turned loose after he had been beaten by "Little Bill Johnston."
Miss Wills, however, does not say things in interviews. She does not want to say. Among her other studies at the University of California she is taking a course in applied psychology—which may account for it. For weeks before she left Berkeley, all the time she was abroad and during the days she was in the east before her return home she adroitly dodged saying "something about Miss Lenglen."
Arriving home nobody thought it worth while to press her on such a hopeless subject. What was the use? So Miss Wills, thoroughly womanlike, decided to open the subject herself. What she has to say of her opponent whom she hoped most to meet but did not might form an interesting treatise on sportsmanship for some of our best known athletes, both amateur and professional.
"Please, oh please, try to correct any impression that I have formed," Miss Lenglen defaulted at Wimbledon and did not enter the olympic tournament because she was afraid of me, begged Miss Wills. "Nothing is further from the truth or more ridiculous."
Miss Lenglen was very ill—I am certain of that. I saw her right after she withdrew from the Wimbledon tournament and it was easy to see she was in no condition to play tennis. Also I know she had not recovered sufficiently to participate in the olympic tournament although she tried herself out on private courts in the hope that she might have recovered sufficient form to participate.
In the Wimbledon competitions, had Miss Lenglen been able to participate at the same top form which she showed earlier in the same tournaments she undoubtedly would have beaten me. I was unable to get into proper stride and she easily beat players who beat me.
"At Paris however I was at top form and think I would have been a great match. Naturally, I am disappointed that I could not play against Miss Lenglen but that will come later."

Labor Day Being Observed In Va.

(By The Associated Press.)
RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 1.—Today is Labor Day. Over the entire State of Virginia the event will be generally observed and celebrated as a holiday.
Reports from a dozen cities, among them Norfolk, Portsmouth, Danville, Roanoke, and others, indicate that labor and trades councils will carry out elaborate programs. Railroads will run excursions, the beaches will be crowded, and amusement places filled generally, while for at least half of the day, business will be practically suspended.
Richmond plans perhaps the largest program. It will include automobile races and other events at the Fair grounds together with the amusements in the city such as theaters, etc. By proclamation of the mayor all city employees will enjoy holiday and in accordance with custom banks will close and the postoffice cease deliveries of mails.
Various activities of Labor Day here will be increased this year by the addition of functions and events at many of the clubs, societies, and other organizations.
Workers will have had the advantage of nearly three days' vacation when they return to work Tuesday morning, since many of them enjoyed holiday since noon Saturday. It will be the last national holiday until Thanksgiving Day the last of November. Fair skies and cooler weather is the forecast of the weather man for the day. With these two factors predominating, Richmond's Labor Day will exceed in variety and scope any previous observance. It is said by those who have planned the programs.
Contrary to popular notion, Labor Day does not come on the first day of September, but on the first Monday in that month. It will fall on September 7th in 1925.

6 SURVIVORS OF WRECKED SHIP ARE PICKED UP

Suffering Severely Men Are Found Afloat At Sea, Where They Were 4 Days.

(By The Associated Press.)
EASTHAMPTON, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Six survivors of the four mast auxiliary schooner Samuel W. Hathaway, wrecked at sea last Tuesday in a hurricane that swept the Atlantic seaboard, were picked up early today by the steamship Southern Cross, bound from Buenos Aires for New York.
The rescued sailor men were found floating atop of the schooner's skylight where they had existed for four days eating such flying fish that they snared and drinking water that they caught in their hats.
The rescued men were suffering severely from their experiences and were taken to the hospital of the Southern Cross which reported the rescue to the Independent wireless company station here.
The Southern Cross is due in New York today. The Hathaway's sailors reported that the schooner's engineer and one sailor were drowned in the blow and Captain Elliott of the Hathaway, was last seen Tuesday night clinging to a raft. The rescue was made at 4.30 o'clock this morning.
The Hathaway was bound from Charleston S. C. loaded with fertilizer for San Juan, Porto Rico, and founded in the hurricane at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. The schooner was owned by Crowell and Thurlow, of Boston. Among the rescued was a steward named Melvin and a boatswain, Ollason.

SAYS LUCK SAVED HIM

Tom Owens, swept off the Arabic by one wave and back to safety by the next.

By ALEXANDER HERMAN
NEA Service Writer
NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—"God's all right in His place. But it's luck that gets one out of a pinch."
With this little credo, Tom H. Owens, trans-Atlantic sailor, washed ashore during a terrific hurricane, only to be washed back on a lower deck, spent no time offering prayer when he recovered his breath. He simply wiped his face, cursed the luck that swept him over and went on with his work—swearing.
"Not that I'm ungrateful," he said when the Arabic, on which he shipped, limped into port. "But what's the good of slopping over a little trouble that happened to turn out right?"
"As I went swirling through the water I figured out that it was all over. Rotten luck. But what good is worryin'?" The thoughts came fast—so fast I grew dizzy. Then all of a sudden the same force that carried me off "B" deck, through the rail and over, swept me back on "C" deck many feet aft.
"I landed with a thump, that sprained my back. But it's all over now, so why waste time talking about it?"
More than 80 of the Arabic passengers and crew were injured in the storm that swept the eastern coast from the Caribbean to the North Atlantic.
Most of them prayed while the

FAMOUS PACER IMPROVES

WITH PASSING OF YEARS

CAMBRIDGE CITY, IND., Aug.
30.—"Single G," 14-year old veteran of the harness racing circuits, is improving with age, despite the general belief that a horse's best days are past when it reaches its tenth year.
This remarkable animal, which eleven years ago made her maiden start over a mile course at Peoria, Illinois, and finished third in a race on the same day in which the world's record was shattered by "William" in another race, still is the talk of the harness racing fraternity. "William"
in making his debut, established a record of 2:05. He and all other racing mates of "Single G" in that day have gone, but the great pacer is more active than ever.

"Single G" established a record of 1:58 1/4 in negotiating the mile in her tenth year of racing last season, and today, in her eleventh year in harness, she promises to do as well or better, according to followers of the circuit races.

BUICK WINS CONTEST
WITH AGED WALKER

Stokes Fails to Break Record. Car
Sets New Record for Low Speed.

George Stokes, veteran pedestrian, failed to break the walking record of 21 hours and 58 minutes from Milwaukee to Chicago, a distance of approximately 100 miles now held by Henry Schmell.

The start was made at 2:00 P. M. on the 8th and exactly twenty-four hours later Stokes had covered 80.3 miles at an average speed of 3.3 miles per hour being forced to give up at this distance on account of an acute attack of indigestion. He finished the trip to Chicago in an automobile.

Stokes made the attempt to break
the record on Friday, August 8th, expecting to complete the walk on August 9th, which was his 69th birthday.

Stokes attempt to walk from Milwaukee to Chicago was really a contest between him as a long distance walker, and an automobile locked in high gear which was to keep up with but not pass the walker. The car which was a new 1925 Buick Standard Six, performed the difficult task of running in high gear all the way
at the average speed of 3.3 per hour.
After Stokes dropped out, the car
continued on its way, arriving at Logan Square, Chicago, with an average speed of 4 miles per hour for the entire distance.

Harry Dole, automobile editor of the Wisconsin News, locked the car in high gear and mailed the key to Rockwell Stephens, automobile editor of the Chicago News, who met and unlocked the car at the end of the trip.

George Stokes performed a wonderful feat in walking 80 miles in 24 hours at the age of 69 years, and the Buick car performed an equally remarkable feat in covering 100 miles at an average of 4 miles an hour and at times as low as two miles an hour.
Wonder how many men at any age can walk 80 miles in 24 hours.

"Single G" has surpassed the record of all harness race horses of the two minute class or better, and they declare her now to be one of the greatest pacers in harness.

"Little Gyp," mare of no recognized breeding, was the dam of "Single G," while "Anderson Wilkes," rated as a good horse in his day and a leading son of "Onward," was her sire. Ed Allen, veteran driver, who has been the trainer of "Single G," is always in the seat when she steps around the circuit. She is the property of W. R. Barefoot of Cambridge City, Indiana.

WILBORN DENIES HE SAID WILSON STARTED MOVE

Warehouseman Also Says
He Refused to Have Anything to Do With It.

(Special to The Bee)
SOUTH BOSTON, Va., Sept. 1.—Mayor J. E. Wilborn today denied published reports that he had charged James H. Wilson of Danville with "instigating" the recent "anti-Pool" movement which was explained here at length at a mass meeting of tobacco growers on Saturday. One Danville paper appeared here late Saturday evening asserting that the mayor had openly charged the Danville warehouseman with planning and projecting the movement. The mayor later gave out this prepared statement:

"I notice that I am quoted as saying that J. H. Wilson was the instigator of the move which is not true. I stated that Mr. Holt from South Boston a Mr. Wilson from Danville, were present at a meeting together with other representatives from other parts of the state who met in Blackstone and this information was given out by Holt himself."

The meeting here on Saturday was beneficial in many ways and the tobacco growers who evidenced ill-will towards the town because of the apparent origin of the surreptitious movement here have been placated. The immediate result of the meeting was the expulsion for the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Marketing Association of W. E. Hazelwood and W. L. Senyour who have been members but who, it was stated have never delivered very much leaf to the organization. This action is likely to follow however, by a "come-back" from the two ousted members who are planning to give out an extended statement on the movement.

James H. Wilson of this city has entered a denial of the charges made at South Boston that he instigated the movement. Last on Saturday night he issued the following prepared statement soon after he had read an account of the South Boston meeting in a local afternoon paper:

"In the press of Saturday, August 30th, appeared a news item of South Boston, quoting Mayor Wilborn as having stated that I am the instigator of a movement in that section to destroy and disintegrate the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association and saying that it was planned by me and others and was done for the benefit of the auction warehouses."

"These statements by Mayor Wilborn are entirely erroneous, and without the slightest foundation of fact."

"J. H. WILSON."
Mr. Wilson lost no time in getting to a telephone and putting in a call to the mayor of South Boston his purpose being to ask him the source of his information in the alleged statement. Mr. Wilson reached Mayor Wilborn during the evening and the South Boston official told him that he had been erroneously quoted. It was Tucker Watkins who made public reference to Mr. Wilson's presence at a meeting held at Blackstone. Mr. Wilson before he got out his formal statement admitted that he had been at Blackstone but that he had frankly told those interested that they were "going in the wrong direction" and that he would have nothing to do with it. Hazelwood, it seems, came to Danville to see Mr. Wilson for the purpose of asking him to call a meeting of the Virginia-Carolina Warehousemen's Association but this, Mr. Wilson says, he refused to do, feeling it improper for the organization to become allied in any way with the movement started in Halifax.

One of the people attending the meeting at South Boston Saturday gained the impression that an effort had been made there to unload the whole unpleasant affair on Danville.

Eight Year Child Burned to Death Kindling a Fire

Frances Wynn, the eight-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Wynn, was burned to death at the parental home, near Vancor, on Saturday morning, the funeral being held there yesterday afternoon, being conducted by Rev. Mr. Clark, of Cascade.

The little girl was engaged in kindling a fire in the kitchen range with the use of lamp oil. After starting the fire, she placed the oil can on the stove and when she was not looking flame leaping from the top of the stove, ignited it and it exploded, raining fire on the child. When she clothing sprang into a blaze, she was terribly burned before the fire could be extinguished, her whole body being blistered and internal damage being wrought. She lingered until shortly after one o'clock when she passed out of her suffering.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Arthur Capper's record-breaking victory in the recent Kansas primaries presents a specific case for the political analysts to dissect in their study of comparative Coolidge and La Follette sentiment in the great agricultural mid-west.

Capper, leader of the "farm bloc," which preceded the "La Follette bloc" in the Senate, was renominated for the Senate by the biggest lead ever given any candidate for any office at a Kansas primary. This, in a campaign where the cry of the opposition was that Capper should be defeated because he "has not supported the president."

Capper has been one of the most active critics in the Senate of the Esch-Cummings railroad law. He remained "regular," however, in the fight led by the La Follette forces, to oust Senator Cummings from the chairmanship of the Interstate Commerce Committee. But he helped overthrow the presidential veto on the bonus bill and opposed the Mellon tax bill, indubitably by the president.

It was on his opposition to the presidential position on the bonus and tax measures that the fight against his renomination was based. As set forth in Capper's own "Weekly," the battle cry of his enemies was:

"Purge the party of those who have failed to stand by the president."

But the voters failed to heed; Capper won by more than 1000,000.

Now the question that is puzzling the dopesters is:

Was Capper's big plurality the result of a pro-Capper or an anti-Coolidge sentiment? Or was it anti-Coolidge, it is viewed as probably active for La Follette. To the extent it was simply pro-Capper, it is looked upon as receptively inclined to "Independent" proposals.

Second only to "detective schools" in number according to Luther C. Steward, president of the national federation of federal employees, come "civil service" correspondence schools which promise, in return for a sizeable fee, to fit anyone in short of a high examination for a position in Uncle Sam's classified service and to land him a job.

"With September just around the corner," says Steward, "and school bells being tuned up to attract seekers of wisdom and instruction, these schools are getting up steam for a fine fall business at the expense of ambitious persons who wish to land government positions."

Any promises held out by such schools for quick and easy employment by the government are somewhat discounted by the fact that the Civil Service Commission itself has found it necessary to issue a warning that such schools have no recognized standing and that:

"Appointment can be secured only through open competitive examination and no school can cause a competitor to be certified for appointment out of the regular order, as determined by examination rating."

A precedent for the recognition of "multitasking" persons arrested as "masters" was established by a Washington police judge the other day.

One of the capital's demure, uniformed policemen, while loitering leisurely in the neighborhood of a Peace Monument, was accosted by an "auto shok" who suggested a little spin around the Speedway.

Disdaining his advances, she moved away. Half an hour later, on a corner two or three blocks distant, the same masquerade renewed his attention.

Spurred again, he tried a third time for luck a little later.

The minion of the law, who had taken the young man's license number, swore out a formal complaint and he was haled to court.

But the judge, well, as nearly as he could sense it, he said, the policeman, by loitering along the street, had invited the masquerade's attention and got only what might have been expected. Case dismissed.
